

The Auction Hall is where buyers come to preview and bid on available slaves. There is an auditorium where slaves are sold, A series of holding cells for those currently being sold and for those that are not yet ready to be sold. And duty stations and quarters for guards that maintain order within the complex.