

Isles in the Delos Sea off the shore of the Leonder Imperium

The Isle of Pharios

Nafplio:

Nafplio is a small village on the island Pharios. Settled very soon after human arrival on Artemisia the village was quiet and of no particular note to anyone until the last few years. With the recent construction of the Tower of Aikaterine Lambros on the island more wealth and important people have flowed into the island. With this increased wealth and traffic has come increased scrutiny from the central authorities in Melanphon. This can be seen primarily in the recent opening in a military school staffed by a pair of veterans from the mainland. This has resulted in some resentment in the older generation.

Tower of Aikaterine Lambros:

Beyond the tower and immediate grounds as depicted the estate occupies roughly the entire western half of Pharios Isle. There are also offshore gardens for underwater plants and pens for sea creatures.

The tower itself is well defended on the magical level, as befits the residence of the pre-eminent alchemist in the Imperium. Beyond that her servants are all well trained soldiers equipped with enchanted weapons and armor provided by Lambros.

The Isle of Goudia

Andromeda:

A very small village on Goudia Isle, less than 100 people in the village. The village primarily survives by fishing with some sheep and goats as well as olive groves and wineries on the rocky hills of the island. The major notable feature of the village is that the leadership of the island is traditionally a woman. While the village is part of the Leonder Imperium the village has yet to implement the sort of military education system normal to the rest of Leonder. The village leadership knows that higher authorities will eventually notice and demand that they do so but they will delay until forced to do so.