

A stark lonely place, even for the Bosses and Administrators. No sunlight except near the large entrances. All have to deal with the old smell of many years of lamp oil smoke. Even the Bosses Dining Room is not pleasant. The dishes are never completely clean, nor is the food tasteful. But the miners don't see that, they only think of the priviledges the Big Guys have of eating their noon meal on the surface and having clean water, even though the water isn't clean nor plentiful for anyone.