

Map Notes for Helinesa Lighthouse

The Lighthouse Keeper, Iohanin, lives here with his family, Chrysalia and his 12 year old daughter, a precocious brat Sophia. He is fairly conscientious about keeping the light going, night and day, but twice has failed to do so, resulting in one shipwreck – which benefited the village greatly, so it was overlooked – at least for now. He has been subsequently intimidated into helping the Gorgias and Lysandras brothers into aiding the smuggling operation. He stores goods among his oil barrels in the cellar, and then helps move them down to the tunnels – mostly natural and a little man-made, to a sea cavern near the beach east of the lighthouse, from where they are loaded onto the Dancing Princess ship anchored nearby.

The tunnel also directly connects to the basement in the Inn of the Drunken Sailor, from where more goods are conveyed.

Little do any of the villagers know that there is more to the caverns below the lighthouse and Inn basements than a simple passageway to the sea.