

This continent-sized island is inhabited by highly evolved people. They totally master their environment with the help of their powerful magic. They are the epitome of civilization, and they clearly know it. They are so proud of themselves that they just forgot something... Nibirum is much larger than Kentoria, and while the wise Kentorians think and ponder, those they call barbarians act...