

Mandalach region

This region is named for the large forest that dominates it, plus the region to the west, the Kelikeil region.

In the south stretch large orchards mostly owned by the large and prosperous Feremsky family. The region here is protected by a small garrison of 15 soldiers, 8 of whom are Feremsky's; all housed in the sturdy Helsbor Tower. It has seen off several serious raids against it from the almost psychotic Azogiv Orcs to the north. Some surviving veterans from an ill-fated venture against their encampment were of the opinion that there was a miasma of hallucinogenic gas emanating from the ground that drive these orcs into insane frenzies – and were the cause of the debacle that occurred when the Helsbor commander sent a force to 'clear the vermin out'.

To the north west is the Miasmatic Swamp, and there the hallucinogenic gas is even stronger. No doubt the ultimate cause of the demise of the once prosperous village of Heligazy, now in ruins.