

Mooserun is a small village built on the banks of Devil Lake in Feralwood Forest. It has a variety of businesses and the village's commerce is based on farming, lumber and some fishing. The patron deity of the village is a forest god. Visitors will find most trades they require within the little village, and hearty meals and drink and rooms can be found at the Mooserun Tavern and Inn. Those seeking more unusual or magical fare may have luck but will need to search through the crowded neighborhoods to find a village alchemist, witch, weaponsmith or other magically-inclined residents. These sorts of people do not advertise their wares and keep to the shadows while the rest of the village keep their existence and locations close-held secrets.