

Tiergeist Region

This region is dominated by the Tiergeist Forest, and the Teufdurch Volcano (which erupts in a minor way about every 10 years – the last huge explosion was over 80 years ago). It was this last explosion that caused Lowermörder Keep to fall into ruins.

Nowadays, the road is only travelled by pilgrims to Skorra. The Last Farmhouse is the last habitation prior to the climb into the forbidding mountains.

In the Forest is a small hamlet, Alfinor, of wild Elves – none too friendly to anyone, so beware an ambush for your food and equipment. Goblins inhabit the caverns of the Geldherz Escarpment – and the tunnels are thought to be very extensive. The surrounding Smunterhaus Marshes house a small family group of hardy Lizardfolk, the sworn foe of the Goblins of the Red Scar.

Finally, the reclusive wizard, Weisdämon, has his tower here – rumours surround him thick and fast; the most disturbing is that he has a habit of capturing lone travellers and using them for experiments. Since no-one travels these roads alone, the truth is untested.