

The City of Vertshusen

Vertshusen was founded over 100 years ago by intrepid loggers in search of the valuable red hickory, so beloved by the magic wielding classes. Quickly, its pure waters helped found a thriving alcohol industry, with the manufacturers and farmers vying to produce what is now the finest ciders, beers and whiskey in the whole Dunor Vaalley. The fertile farmland also encouraged a burgeoning dairy industry, with its soft blue cheeses the envy of the whole region. With the river Jenin navigable by small ships, it is a wealthy little city of about 7000 souls, all ministered to by the kindly but firm hand of their Matriarch, Putreska Trumpinov.

There is no index of buildings here apart from what is on the map. You are encouraged to make it your own.